Jazzart Dance Theatre is the oldest contemporary dance company in the Cape, if not in Africa, and has been at the forefront of contemporary dance development within the context of democratic practice since the 1970s.

JazzartXpress! was developed by the company dancers in order to take dance from the stuffy halls and studios of the South African dance world and fling it back to the streets where it belongs. It explores how our daily lives, and our environment within which we live and move, influence our choreographed processes. JazzartXpress! investigates the extent to which dance can transform and evolve if it communicates everyday life experiences.

Developed through discussion and improvised workshops with artistic director Jacqueline Manyapelo, JazzartXpress! demonstrates the company's commitment to performing in different social settings, and encourages interaction, experimental and creativity.

JazzartXpress! will be performed in the Township Cafe spaces during AfroVibes Festival, creating ample opportunities for audience interaction.
