Antique computers home page

Written by Administrator
Wednesday, 31 December 2008 14:56 -

Having a long interest in computers I collected old computer parts form when I was 12 years old. These part were assembled into adders, registers, and core memory. However, only when I got hands on an 8080 chip (in 1976), did I create myy first working computer. Since then, the parts I collected have been mostly sitting in boxes. Now I am uncovering them to create a virtual computer museum. To do that, I am combining photo's of the original artifacts with documentation I found.